Certifications

Responsible products are increasingly valued. The products in this catalogue include features such as ‘recycled’ and ‘upcycled’. These features are supported by globally recognised sustainability certifications.

FSC® - Forest Stewardship Council

FSC® stands for Forest Stewardship Council, a voluntary certification that demonstrates that the wood and bamboo used for our products come from sustainable and responsible forest management. Forests are verified and certified by an independent party and products from these forests can be sold as FSC®-certified. Every chain in the supply chain of these products must be certified. This way we can be sure that the products are in fact from sustainable forest management.

GRS – Global Recycled Standard

Certified by Control Union
CU 1196704

Products certified to the Global Recycled Standard (GRS) contain recycled content that has been (independently) verified at each stage of the supply chain, from the source to the final product. In addition, certified organizations have met social, environmental, and chemical requirements. The purchase of Global Recycled Standard (GRS) certified products demonstrates demand for recycled content and best processing practices in the supply chain.

RCS - Recycled Claim Standard

Certified by Control Union
CU 1196704

Products certified to the Recycled Claim Standard (RCS) contain recycled content that has been (independently) verified at each stage of the supply chain, from the source to the final product. The purchase of Recycled Claim Standard (RCS) certified products demonstrates demand for recycled content. Products certified to the Recycled Claim Standard 100 (RCS 100) contain at least 95% certified recycled content. Products certified to the Recycled Claim Standard Blended (RCS Blended) contain between 5-94% certified recycled content.

GOTS – Global Organic Textile Standard

Certified by Control Union
CU 1196704

This standard is international and voluntary and sets requirements for third-party certification of organically grown material, Chain of Custody, social and environmental practices and chemical restrictions. It is an internationally recognized certification standard for textiles, clothing and fibres made from organically produced natural fibres. Products that meet the GOTS standard are recognized as organically and sustainably produced.

Overview of materials

Waste material

Waste as the basis for new business gifts
Coffee grounds, apple pulp, and recycled milk cartons are given a second life as materials for new products. For instance, coffee grounds can be used to produce reusable drinking cups, while apple pulp serves as the basis for stylish laptop sleeves, for example. Used milk cartons are processed into practical notebooks. This reuse process shows how leftover materials gain new value, finding meaningful application in everyday products.

Recycled material

A second life for used products
tRecycled material plays an important role in reducing waste and saving resources. Materials such as plastic bottles and old textiles are processed and transformed into new products, such as RPET items, bags and towels. This process helps reduce waste and promotes a circular economy, where resources go through multiple life cycles before being replaced.

Natural material

The power of natural materials
tNatural and bio-based materials are increasingly used as alternatives to traditional plastics. Examples include organic cotton, bamboo, cork, and jute, which are found in products like bags, cutting boards, and kitchen accessories. Additionally, bio-based materials made from starch, sugars, and cellulose, as well as agricultural and organic waste like corn or sugarcane remnants, are used. These materials offer a more sustainable alternative to non-renewable resources.

Recycled stainless steel

A strong choice with impact
Recycled stainless steel (SS) is stainless steel made from recycled metals, usually from old stainless-steel products, such as kitchenware and appliances. A recycling process allows these valuable materials to be reused, reducing the need for new raw materials.
Products made from recycled stainless steel have a long lifespan. They are hygienic, easy to clean and resistant to corrosion, making them ideal for everyday use.

Recycled abs

The popularity of recycled ABS
Recycled ABS is a material produced by collecting and processing used ABS plastic products. ABS is found in products such as toys, electronics and car parts. Recycled ABS is produced by sorting and cleaning used ABS products, melting them and transforming them into new products.

Recycled aluminium

Recycled aluminium: A smart solution

Recycled aluminium is made from used aluminium products such as soft drink cans or aluminium packaging. Instead of mining and processing new aluminium ore, these old aluminium products are collected and remelted to create new aluminium products. By using recycled aluminium, fewer new raw materials are used.

Recycled milk packs

From used milk cartons to new promotional products

Recycled milk cartons are a valuable source of new products. Milk packaging material consists of aluminium, paper and plastic, which are carefully separated, sorted and processed by machines. The remaining paper is made into notebooks and other functional items, among others. Products with a special past, ready for a second life.

Recycled glass

Timeless promotion with recycled glass

Bottles that are placed in to recycling are firstly broken down and washed. This material is then melted down into recycled glass to make new bottles or other functional glass products. When this new product is eventually placed in to recycling, the process starts all over again.

Recycled cotton

Feeling good about reused textiles

Cotton can be recycled from textile waste from the textile industry (pre-consumer) or from discarded consumer textiles (post-consumer). In this process, different raw materials are often combined. Worn textiles are carefully sorted and stripped of buttons, zips and labels. The fibres are then machine combed until only the pure fibres remain. These are mixed with a small percentage of virgin, organic cotton or polyester and from these, strong yarns are spun.

RPET

The new normal in product material

RPET stands for Recycled Polyethylene Terephthalate, a material made from recycled PET plastic, such as plastic bottles and packaging. This process starts by collecting and separating plastic waste, which is then carefully cleaned and shredded into small plastic particles. These particles are then converted into granulate, which can be re-formed into products via injection moulding or other production methods. RPET is indistinguishable from 'regular' plastic. RPET reduces the demand for new plastic and thus contributes to reducing plastic waste.

Hemp

Hemp fibers: A strong foundation for reusable bags

The hemp plant naturally produces exceptionally strong fibres, which have been used in textiles for centuries for their strength and versatility. Thanks to its rapid growth and deep root system, hemp supports soil health and helps purify pollutants. Hemp requires up to 35% less water than cotton and can grow without pesticides due to its natural resistance to insects. This allows it to be grown organically. Fabric made from hemp feels soft and warm and retains its quality even after frequent washing. Hemp offers a reliable, natural base for reusable bags.

Jute

The force of nature

Jute is a long, soft, plant bast fibre that can be spun into rough, strong threads. Plant material that is 100% biodegradable. Very little fertiliser and pesticides are used to grow jute. This makes it a good alternative to cotton and nylon. Jute gives products a cool and robust appearance. As it is a strong, hard-wearing and tough material, it is ideally suited as a basis for making shopping bags.

Coffee waste

Boost your brand with coffee grounds

Coffee grounds are a valuable raw material that can be reused in various ways. Coffee grounds are mainly collected from the catering industry. Coffee grounds can serve as a basis for paper production by adding cellulose. Coffee grounds can also be processed into granulate suitable for making plastic. With some additional ingredients and processing, coffee grounds eventually create the basis for materials such as paper, plastic and yarn, which can be further processed into all kinds of functional products. A nice bonus is that products made from coffee waste, often still smell like coffee.

Cork

A natural product that is quickly gaining popularity

Cork is back with a vengeance. It is made from the bark of the cork oak tree and is fully biodegradable and easy to recycle. In addition, cork is light, soft and versatile. It is easy to process into beautiful promotional products. The use of cork gives products a strikingly beautiful and warm appearance.

Organic cotton

The soft refinement of natural textiles

Cotton is breathable, light and mostly affordable. Organic cotton is grown without artificial fertilisers and synthetic pesticides. More rainwater and less irrigated water is used for cultivation, and the plant grows at a natural rate. This results in strong, soft fibres suitable for long-term use.

Organic cotton typically has a lower impact on the environment and supports a more natural approach to cotton production. This makes it a great basis for conveying a promotional message.

Bamboo

Naturally on trend

Bamboo is strong, fully degradable and visually appealing. Bamboo can grow up to a metre a day and requires no pesticides or herbicides to thrive, making it an efficient and low-threshold plant for renewable production. Harvesting bamboo does not require replanting, as the plant's roots remain in place and continue to produce new shoots. Bamboo is naturally antibacterial and easy to clean. Pure nature; therefore, each bamboo product has its own unique colour. A beautiful basis for functional products.

Sugar cane waste

Sugarcane as biobased raw material for promotional products

Sugar cane belongs to the grass family and is a fast-growing crop. After harvesting and producing sugars, leaves and stems remain as residual products. Instead of burning this waste, these remnants are now used as raw material for bio-plastics. Sugarcane removes CO2 from the air while growing and is highly resistant to disease and drought, reducing the resources needed to maintain the plant. This makes sugarcane an excellent choice for producing innovative, hard-wearing materials.

MADE out of

Certified B Corporation

Show them what you're made of

The products of the Made out of brand have a minimalist, timeless look. They are not designed with trends in mind, but with the aim of serving as basic pieces for a long time.

To ensure longevity, a lot of time and attention is paid to the quality of the material and design of the products. Because of the circular and creative approach, raw materials and waste are handled smartly. By using organic, recycled and upcycled materials, such as recycled apple waste, recycled leather and recycled wool felt, new, unique products are created.

The products are designed in the Netherlands. Every MADE out of product is produced by hand by local makers, partly in social enterprises. The products feature a transparency label with QR code that gives access to the story and the underlying impact of the material.

MADE out of is B Corp-certified; the collection is produced to the highest ecological and social standards of B Corp.

Recycled apple waste

With the luxurious look of real leather

The leather-like material is a plant-based alternative to leather, developed from apple waste. Making 1 litre of apple juice requires 1.4 kg of apples. The skin, core and pulp remain. Instead of throwing away this residue, it is dried, ground and processed into a leather-like material. This innovative technology is animal-friendly and replaces up to 50% of fossil raw materials, reducing emissions and energy consumption in the production chain.

The material is produced in Italy and processed in the Netherlands by a social apprenticeship company into stylish products with the look and feel of genuine leather.

Recycled leather

From leather waste to luxury leather products

This recycled leather is made from renewed material from leather waste from shoe and bag productions in Italy. The waste is collected, ground and re-bonded with water and natural binders. This material is given a new purpose in the form of a new product. The products are coated with a coloured top layer made from a thin 100% water-based PU coating. The recycled leather has a rubbery feel and a beautiful matt appearance. Experience the feeling of luxury and comfort of these unique products.

Recycled wool felt

Innovative felt production

Produced in Italy, this recycled felt is made from regenerated wool fibres. During a process, garments are reduced to recycled fibres and separated by colour and type. At the end of the production process, the tuft looks the same as freshly shorn wool and retains its natural appearance. The final material consists of 50% recycled material, 30% wool and 20% PE. The comfortable recycled wool felt gives the products a warm and luxurious feel.

Recycled textile

A new purpose for denim waste

Made from recycled denim fibres, this recycled textile consists of 70% denim waste, 25% binders and 5% vegetable additives. It has a fine, yet cool-looking texture. Fine fibres make this flexible material similar to real leather. It is 100% recyclable and can be reused repeatedly. Products made from this material are favourite and have a contemporary look.

Bambook

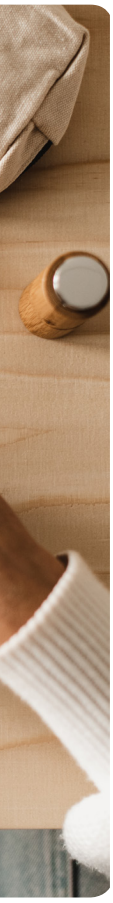

Write, scan, erase, repeat

Discover the new way to write without wasting paper. Together, switch from single-use paper to erasable notebooks. Because reusing and saving becomes the new norm: that's what we're going for. You can therefore endlessly rewrite your Bambook. No more stuffed bins, or papers lying around: everything in one convenient place.

Together, we draw a line under piles of paper waste, deforestation and wasted resources. The books are made by hand in the Netherlands.

MOYU

The notebook that lasts for years

The mission of the MOYU brand is to produce notebooks but without single use paper, without paper waste and without deforestation. Believing in a world without deforestation, MOYU makes notebooks from erasable stone paper. Stone paper is made from 80% limestone and 20% clean plastic. This paper protects trees, the water supply and does not require the use of bleach. Stone paper is also rewritable upto 500 times, making this product highly recyclable.

Make your notes with the special MOYU pen with original Frixion ink. The ink dries completely on stone paper and is easy to erase with a slightly damp MOYU cloth. This leaves pages blank for new ideas and to-do lists. The notebooks come with pen and cloth.

MOYU is B corp-certified; the collection is produced to the highest ecological and social standards of B Corp.

New in our collection: Kariban Promotional Textile

KARIBAN

Vary and combine with Kariban's quality collection

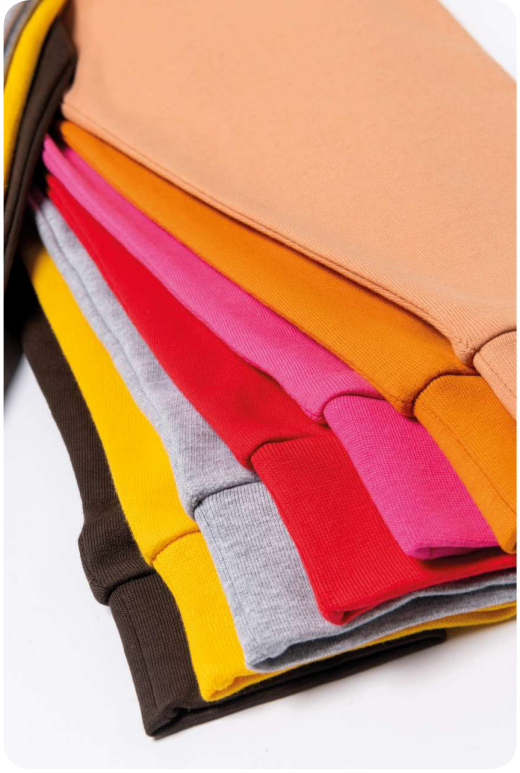

Kariban has a fresh, modern take on advertising textiles. Through clean lines, carefully selected materials, fitted fits and a French elegance, the brand managed to turn classic ready-to-wear clothing into indispensable promotional clothing for companies. The collection is characterised by carefully selected materials in a variety of styles, sizes and colours. With models for him, for her or unisex. Perfectly to combine.

Put your brand in the spotlight with clothes from this versatile collection: representative, wear-resistant and trendy. Kariban is the brand to present promotional clothing at the highest level. The clothes are perfect for printing or embroidering, which emphasises your brand identity in the best possible way.

Kariban takes it one step further

Kariban consciously focuses on responsible and innovative production. The brand increasingly integrates recycled materials in its collections It uses organic cotton or cotton that is in conversion to organic cultivation, certified by Ecocert Greenlife. Kariban also frequently uses recycled raw materials, such as recycled cotton and polyester, which require significantly less irrigation water and energy during production than traditional varieties. With this, Kariban consciously chooses raw materials with a lower impact.

Responsible materials from Kariban: Carefully chosen for quality

100% organic cotton in conversion

To promote sustainable production, Kariban is betting on choices such as recycled, organic and cotton in conversion. This cotton is grown according to the principles of organic farming, but is often more economical than fully certified organic cotton. Cotton in conversion offers all the benefits of organic cultivation: it preserves and improves soil fertility, and uses less water and energy than conventional cotton, significantly reducing its impact on the environment.

The term ‘cotton in conversion’ supports growers making the transition from conventional to organic cultivation. Encouraging this intermediate step contributes to a wider, global supply of organic cotton and accelerates the transition to sustainable agriculture.

100% recycled polyester

Kariban is striving for a future where textile production is less harmful to the environment. The collection uses 100% recycled polyester, made from recycled plastic bottles, among other materials. This material offers the same strength and versatility as new polyester and is perfect for quality garments that last.

Recycling polyester reduces not only the amount of new plastic needed, but also the waste stream. Using recycled polyester reduces the need for new raw materials and creates less waste. Thus, practical use of materials is combined with the reliable properties you would expect from Kariban.

100% organic combed cotton

Kariban selects 100% organic combed cotton for a soft, comfortable fabric that feels comfortable on the skin. Organic cotton is grown without synthetic pesticides and artificial fertilisers, contributing to a natural growing process.

Cotton combing removes short, irregular fibres, leaving the fabric smoother, stronger and softer to the touch. This process allows the cotton fibres to fit together better, resulting in a sturdy and durable fabric. The result is a high-quality fabric suitable for everyday use and perfect for professional printing or embroidery.
